A FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT.

Close Call to a Collision Between a Street Railway Car and Locomotive.

A Young Lady Seriously Injured, Many Bruised, and the Horses Killed.

Last evening when the 6 o'clock transfer came across the river it brought a larger number of passengers than usual, many of whom were residents of this city and were returning from the firemen's tournament at Council Bluffs, and a large number of others, who came across to attend the Saengerfest in this city. An open street railway car stood at the usual stand and was soon rapidly being filled, when, before all the car could hold could get aboard, the horses started at a rapid pace. For a short distance the tracks descend a sharp grade, at the foot of which cross the freight tracks of the U. P. Railway. While the horses were going down the grade unusually fast the flagman at the crossing ran out, waving his flag and shouting at the top of his voice. The driver turned on the breaks, but they were out of order and would not hold. Then followed a scene of fright and confusion; people screamed and jumped from the doors and windows of the car; the coupling pin flew out and the horses ran away, dragging the driver over the guard and along the street behind them; the street car ran upon the crossing and stopped; the locomotive came thundering along, but the engineer, by reversing the lever, was able to stop it just about two feet from the car. Eight, and eight only of the passengers remained in the car, and escaped all injury save a severe fright, while those who jumped from the car were, many of them, severely hurt and mangled. Miss Hattie McKoon, who resides in this city and teaches in our schools, in jumping, fell upon her back, striking her head upon the rail of the track and for a time rendering her insensible. She was picked up, placed in a carriage and taken away for medical care. Her condition last evening was somewhat improved, but may still prove fatal. The horses ran about two blocks down the street until they reached the embankment crossing South Omaha creek, when they turned to the right, and blindly went crashing through the guard, falling to the bottom. They were fearfully mangled, and after struggling awhile died. The driver was a new man on the line and we were not able to learn his name. He was plucky and hung to the lines and was drawn over the precipice with the horses, but was uninjured, save some slight bruises. The scene was one of indescribable excitement, for all could see the car and locomotive approaching each other, which, if the engineer had not been able to stop the locomotive, would have resulted in a dire catastrophe. GRANDFATHER GO DALE

The Oldest Engineer in the United States in the City. W. W. Goodale, the oldest living engineer in the United States, is in the city, a guest of Albert Johnson, of 506 South Eighth street. In last Saturday's edition of THE BEE appeared a lengthy sketch of Mr. Goodale, taken from the St. Joe Gazette. He is seventy-eight years of age and a Massachusetts man by birth. As early as 1830 he was a steamboat engineer on Lake Erie, and four years later had charge of the old "Wm. Penn," which was run on the Baltimore & Ohio, the oldest railroad in the United States. Between 1838 and 1842 he was an engineer on the Cumberland Valley road in Pennsylvania, and in the latter year ran the first engine that ever steamed out of Buffalo and later he became connected with the Norris & Baldwin locomotive works in Philadelphia, and generally accompanied their engines to the different roads to test them. In 1849 he took several engines to Chili for the firm and remained in South America until 1852. Two years afterward he came West and entered into the employ of the C. B. & Q. While repairing something about his engine in 1857, under a pressure of eighty pounds of steam, he became overheated and catching cold it settled in his eyes. He was blind for four years on this account, but his eyesight was finally restored by a celebrated Philadelphia oculist. In 1865 he worked under Chas. H. Mead, on the Hannibal & St. Joe road, and continued with that company until three years ago, when his eyesight became so poor as to incapacitate him from engineering work. His eyesight at the present time, while not perfect, does not interfere with him. The old gentleman spent about half a century on the rail and always was unusually fortunate in not being in any big railroad accident. He looks forward with a great deal of pleasure to a trip which he hopes to take to Colorado before his return to his present home in Brookfield, Mo. We offer this week the cheapest line of white shirts and neck ties ever offered in Omaha. Our stock of gents' furnishing goods is complete and all offered at unheard of prices. L. B. WILLIAMS & SON, Corner Dodge and Fifteenth streets. Lemons cheaper than ever at j6-1w Buffett's. Ladies linen ulsters cheap at the Boston Store, 616 10th street. j7-5t. Just received another large lot of Boys and Children's clothing, at Polack's, Farnham and 14th sts. 4-3t. 1500 imported Fayal Hats 50c each at the Boston Store, 616, 10th street. j7-5t. A fine line of Gents' Furnishing Goods at reduced prices. eod-2w M. HELLMAN & Co. Messrs. A. Cruickshank & Co. extend a cordial invitation to all strangers visiting Omaha to call and examine their magnificent establishment, and have detailed two of their clerks to show visitors all through the store. This store is one of the sights of Omaha. It is the largest retail Dry Goods House in Nebraska, and acknowledged by all to be the finest and best arranged store west of Chicago, arranged on three floors, having fifteen departments and forty-five employees, and retailing nearly a quarter of a million worth of Dry Goods. A trade so immense as this could only be achieved by good goods at low prices, and strangers cannot do better than price a few of their goods as they pass through, and see the extraordinary difference that can be made by merchants that go for a large trade at moderate prices. Amongst a few of the noticeable things they offer are a splendid line of Gents' half Hose, at 25c a pair. These goods are excellent quality and really worth 50 cents. A splendid line of Ties at 50c, worth $1.25, and those beautiful white dress shirts, unlaundried, the very best quality, at 75c. This is almost incredible, but they ask strangers to call and examine for themselves. Their line of Silks, Cashmères and Fancy Dry Goods is simply superb, all offered at New York and Chicago prices. Their stock of Parasols and Sunshades comprise an assortment not to be met with outside of New York, arranged in a line of glass cases so that purchasers can see at a glance every style in stock. Do not fail to visit this store even if you have only time to spend a few minutes. j68-4t. LADIES' CLOTH LACE SHOES at 50 cents on the dollar. Must be sold. A. D. MORSE, 14th and Farnham streets. DURING THE SANGERFEST. CALL AND BUY SILVERWARE. NEW AND ELEGANT DESIGNS. WHIPPLE, McMILLAN & Co., j68-4t. CREIGHTON BLOCK. Go to H. G. Clark & Co., for soda water syrups and extracts. j6-6t. Lowest possible cash prices always guaranteed and but one price asked at Bushman's Dry Goods Store, southeast corner Fifteenth and Douglas streets. BARGAINS—DRESS GOODS—BUSHMAN'S. Good picnic mitts 30c at Kurtz's store.

POLICE COURT PICKINGS.

Drunk and Disorderly—Four Young Vagrants—Money in His Stocking. There was a full docket in the police court yesterday. Just as Judge Bencke was about to call the first case, Sallie Johnson, a colored woman arrested for keeping a house of ill-fame, walked in and upon permission addressed the court, notifying him that she, in her estimation was an honest, virtuous woman, and that she would never pay her fine of six dollars. She was remarkably eloquent in her indignation, but circumstances were decidedly against her and when the Judge gave her until the fifteenth to either plead guilty and pay the fine or have a trial, she laughed and swore she would have "all the other nigger ranches pulled." Aaron Sherer, a middle-aged man, was called for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Aaron is a slick one and was recognized by THE BEE representative as a bad man from Lincoln, who figured often in the police court under various names. His favorite role is the ignorant, innocent, simple old man, and it took a little severe talk this morning to convince him that he had been drunk and that his nose was swollen and skinned from his fall on the pavement. He was fined $10 and costs, and after being taken to the jail pulled off his stocking, took from the heel a ten dollar bill and sent it to the Judge with his compliments, both of which were duly received and appreciated. Joseph Maxwell was drunk and disorderly. He pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs, and sent to jail for twelve days in default thereof. Joseph went and went. Four young boys were arrested as vagrants and suspicious characters. One was able to prove that, although being with a hard-looking crowd, he was earning an honest living, and was discharged. The other three were escorted out of the city. Sam Koslin, clerk in the Germania boarding house, was up for disturbing the peace, in pounding a delinquent guest at the house. Sam convinced the judge, through an interpreter, that he cracked his victim's skull in self-defense, as the fellow wanted to take his valise without returning the check for the same and struck him first. He was dismissed. John Straight, a stranger in the city, was arrested for disturbing the peace. He made his appearance before the judge, looking more like a dead man than a puglist, with his head swathed in blood-soaked bandages, and acknowledged he was a little hasty in trying to take his valise, but had lost his check and wanted his property. He did "lay his hand upon Koslin" and thought he was sufficiently punished for so doing. The judge thought so, too, and dismissed the case. A. F. A. M. There will be a special communication (Thursday) evening, for work in the E. A. degree. Visiting brethren are cordially invited. JAMES B. BONNER, Master. Remember the cheapest place for good Boots and Shoes is at Kidd's New Store, in Jacobs' Block, 15th St. je-2t. Fan yourself at Kurtz's Store.
